

Monday, Aug. 15, 1994 Hot & Sunny Couch Inn

It looks like a sunny day. Mort got some first coat varnish on. He's afraid to do too much since weather still unpredictable.

After lunch another 52 ft. De Fever came in. By 2:00 we had met them Susan and Repo Guy of "Oh Suzanna". By dinner time we had seen their 52' and they had seen ours. Very nice people.

Dinner was Cold Salmon, Homefries & Broccoli

It is a pretty day today. Mort got more varnish done, but not without mishap. He spilled a small amt. of varnish on the stairs to the upper deck. The air was blue. I got caught in "the fall out."

Varsay polished the ports Mort had cleared ^{to} 20. at 5:00 Katie Al, Mort & I dined up to the job room for Charlie & Jeanie's farewell party.

We had a great time, but when we returned Mort had the misfortune of offering me a personal ~~criticism~~ criticism (sp.?) and he got caught in "my fall out".

This was just not our best day together.

I pray Wednesday is better, cause today was compounded by a roach on our deck at 10:00 P.M. Ugh!!! at 10:10 I'm running around spraying Ugh!!!

Hot & sunny

*Coach In Marina

It is a pretty A.M., but it looks like a hot one. Just so there are no thunderstorms, rain or hurricanes, 'cause there is a depression off of Africa. It is the season.

I'm gonna try to "be a good girl" today.

Note: I doubled my sour dough & defrosted the top fudge. Mort has not been feeling well, Physically (allergies) or Emotionally (a reaction he sometimes gets to Seldax). We are not gonna give him anymore seldax. Did laundry not worked on broken wires in the Dinner was Lamb Chops & Salad.

Coach In Marina

We are still tracking "Chris" the storm in the N.E. Atlantic. Everyone is very nervous.

We went to the Yamaha place and food shopping after Mort finished up with the whaler. He not only fixed the broken wires to the Horn, but he fixed the automatic belt pump on the back of the whaler.

We had a pretty nice morning. He is feeling a little bit better.

Tonight we will go to Happy Hour at Lips if all is well. Had a good time.

NOTE:

Re: fridges. After defrosting top box compressor would not shut down. Matt put more freon in and it would still not shut down. Then he raised the ^{low} pressure ^{side} slightly and the compressor began cycling as normal. My top box, however, needs to be set at a much lower temp. (higher # on thermostat) To give me the cold I need.

We also note that the bottom Box should be defrosted first.

Note #2

I will use my last Orange Tomato today. Put them aboard green the last week in April. Amazing. I only lost about 4 tomatoes out of 25 pounds.

This was good production day.

I pre cooked a chicken - Tree House style. Not opened a fresh coconut for it. We got almost 2 cups of juice from it and I grated some of the fresh nut on top.

I have been having trouble with my throat. I pray it is a minor thing. It doesn't feel that way though.

We had Harry drop by for Cocktails and invited him to share dinner. It was delicious

Couch Inn.

We had super productive day today. Most got a window re-bedded, and lots of varnish done. I also got lots done in preparation for leaving. We are getting mentally ready as well. Took out suit cases today as well.

For dinner I made pulled boneless duck Breast with orange cranberry sauce & shallot rice. Fabulous.

After dinner we took the whaler and rowed through the Harbour watching a gorgeous full moon rise.

A good day.

By 9:30 most had already changed the zinks on the shafts. It took him a half hour.

Now he is ~~to~~ sanding in preparation for varnish. He has begun to make progress. If only the weather will hold.

Tonight we will have dinner at Wally's

I'm trying to reach Marvin about my throat. Got him. He is arranging a scoping for the 31st Aug. He thinks it is a diverticulum of the esophagus.

Most got oodles of varnish done this week.
